Lorah Eisley rightly said, “If there is magic on this planet, it is contained in water.” Celebrating this magic of water, the SAI Family observed the ‘World Water Day’ on 22nd of March. Water as we all know, is a pre-requisite for a thriving and balanced eco system. Yet, water crisis is affecting us all sadly due to the nonchalant attitude of the current human race.

The event took a kick start with videos showing the importance of water and the pollution of water- an issue of global concern. Saioneers gave a power packed, informative presentation on the current status of water on this planet which was an eye opener. Students also recited a wonderful poem urging each one to do their bit in saving water for our next generations to come.

The Chief Guest, Shri. S.N. Tripathi, IAS, Principal Secretary, Department of Rural Development, Government of Odisha graced the occasion with his presence. He shared with us his thoughts on the importance of saving water and spoke about the steps taken by the government to provide one and all with drinking water facilities. He gave the students the mantra of, “Use water effectively and efficiently.” At SAI International, we believe that water issues are not something to be discussed on one single day. There has to be a continuous effort to preserve and respect the life giving resource. We pledge to not let our wells dry.
